THE FREE COINAGE BILL

Will Be Reported Adversely by the Coinage Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. The House Coinage Committee by a vote of 8 to 4, has decided to report the Senate free coinage bill adversely, with recommendation that it do not pass. The four in the minority were Carter, Bartine, Bland and Williams. Two compromises were proposed in the Coinage Committee by Mr Carter. The first was for the free coinage of the American product and a second for purchases of ten millions of silver for three months and six millions for each month thereafter.

Both propositions were defeated, not getting as much support as unlimited free coinage. The adverse report on the Senate free coinage bill will be made by Mr. Wyckham, chairman of the committee.

The four members in the minority were the old free coinage contingent of the committee. The eight members of the committee who composed the majority were, Messrs. Wickham, of Ohio, chairman, and Walker, of Massachusetts, Comstock, of Minnesota, Knapp of New York, Taylor, of Illinois, Republicans, and Tracey, of New York, Wilcox, of Connecticut, Vaux, of Pennsylvania, Democrats.

Mr Knapp, of New York, was not actually present but had given Mr Walker a written proxy authorizing the latter to represent him and his vote cast against the bill according to his wishes.

TERRIBLE SCENE.

Accident in a Railway Tunnel.

The Cars Take Fire from the Wreck.

The Wildest Confusion Among the People.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. A collision occurred at 7.10 this morning in the railway tunnel on Fourth Avenue near 84th street between two passenger trains. Some of the cars took fire after the collision. Six persons have been taken from the wreck dead or injured.

Shortly after eight o'clock the body of a woman turned to a crisp was found. The engineer of one of the trains had one of his legs burned off and another employe of the road was also badly burned. The injured were taken to the Presbyterian Hospital.

Five bodies had been taken from the wreck up to 11 o'clock. They were those of three men, one woman and one boy. The dead were so badly burned that

Identification was Impossible

Five men were injured. The firemen claim that no more bodies are in the wreck and have abandoned the search. The police, however, insist that there are still some bodies there.

One of the passengers says: "It was a terrible scene. The engine of one train smashed a switching engine and threw it from the track along with one car. There was the wildest confusion, and the next moment our engine had telescoped the sleeping car in which were a number of employes of the New Haven road. The sleeping car instantly caught fire. I saw a man with his head partly out of a window of the burning car. He implored us to kill him, for he was burning alive. We but it was impossible as he was pinned down by the debris. A couple of half charred bodies were taken from the car, one dead and the other still breathing. I shall never forget the sight."

The last vestige of the wreck will probably be cleared away from the scene of the catastrophe this afternoon.

It was stated at 1 o'clock that Louis Fowler, engineer of the New Haven road, would probably be held accountable for the accident, it being alleged that he disregarded the danger signal. Fowler positively declares that no such signal was displayed.

Four more unrecognizable bodies have been removed from the wreck and sent to the morgue, making nine altogether.

How the Fire was Started could not be definitely ascertained up to a late hour this afternoon.

J. J. Helleben, of Boston, was quite severely injured in the tunnel accident. One arm was broken and he has some marks or scratches on the face. He is at the Chambers street Hospital.

Observed the Signals

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb 20. General Manager Shepard, of the New York and New Haven railroad, has telegraphed Superintendent of the New York division at the Grand Central depot, that Engineer Fowler of the New Haven train in collision in the tunnel accident, did not disregard the signals.

JAIL DELIVERY.

Jailer Pounced Upon and Beaten Into Insensibility.

Searching Parties Now in Search of the Fugitives.

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb 20. Seven of the worst prisoners in the county jail at Smithport escaped last night.

When Jailer Dwyer entered the hall to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night he was pounced upon by two of the prisoners and choked and pounded into insensibility while the other prisoners put an iron bar in the grating and prevented Mrs. Grubb, the sheriff's wife, from locking the door.

Reddy Mack, in for highway robbery, then seized the sheriff's wife and held her until six criminals got away. He then threw her aside and made a flying leap through a window. Searching parties are after the fugitives.

A BRUTAL AFFAIR

Causing a Sensation in Portsmouth, N. H.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Feb. 20. For some time there has been trouble between Mayor Fay and Alderman Rider, chairman of the street department, relating to matters concerning that branch of the City Government. Last night, during the session of the board of Mayor and Aldermen, the pay roll of the employes of the city department, approved by the Mayor, was presented to the board to be paid.

Alderman Rider objected to the payment and during a discussion which followed with the Mayor, said that a statement made by the Mayor was false, whereupon the Mayor said he would not allow any one to call him a liar and would see him after the session was over.

At the conclusion of the session the Mayor and Alderman Rider indulged in a heated discussion. While thus engaged William Quinn, who is employed around Rider's store and struck him a fierce blow in the face, felling him to the floor. Some bystanders picked the mayor from the floor while others seized Quinn to prevent him from doing more harm.

An examination of the mayor's face showed a bad cut under the left eye, which bled quite freely.

Quinn, who committed the brutal and unprovoked assault, is a ruffian of the lowest character and has been engaged in numerous assault cases. This morning he was arraigned before Judge Batchelder, charged with assault, and after a lengthy hearing was sentenced to 30 days imprisonment in jail and to pay the costs of prosecution.

The affair is the only topic of conversation in the city to-day and Quinn's brutal act is condemned on all sides.

BREWER LOCALS.

Street Commissioner Glidden was busy all day yesterday gravelling the sidewalks to make them passable.

The first car load of kindling wood to be shipped from the new mill at South Brewer was shipped yesterday.

Mr D A Sargent has been absent in Massachusetts on business for a few days, but is expected to return to-day.

Capt Marshall, of this city, is busy repairing his schooner, the Webster Barnard, which is lying in the river near the Bangor shore, and putting her in condition for a season's work.

Capt Charles F Trask and Fred D Wyman leave this morning for a visit to Mr Samuel Hodgdon's camp in the Moosehead Lake region and while there will tempt the trout through the ice.

It commenced snowing about 4.30 yesterday afternoon and at the time of writing it still continues to fall, looking as if the sleighing in some places, before all ice, would be buried in snow.

The voting lists were put in their accustomed places yesterday and from now until election there is plenty of time to see that the names of Brewer Republicans are all on the books. The lists for Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 have been hung in the post-office for Brewer proper and the list for Ward 5 hung in the South Brewer post-office.

Mr. A. A. Barstowe yesterday received a letter from Portland, stating that his daughter, Mrs Annie E Cobb, of that city, who has been critically ill, had successfully passed through a very severe operation in the Maine General Hospital, where she had gone for treatment and there were hopes of her recovery. Her many friends here hope that she may see good health completely restored.

We yesterday overlooked the item that though Brewer can toll no bells in case of the death of our honored veterans, Thursday she could show signs of respect by flying the stars and stripes at half mast on every school house which possesses a flag. With such reminders as these flags it is highly improbable that our scholars will ever forget the bravery of those whose deeds of valor made it possible for the flags to float over the Union.

Mr. Luther Chick, of Chelsea, Mass., arrived in this city last evening, called to his old home by the death of his father, Mr. Hiram A. Chick, who passed away on Thursday at the age of 81 years, 2 months and 15 days. Mr Chick lived in his native town of Litchfield until he was twenty-five, after which he moved to Massachusetts and in 1845 to this city where he has resided ever since. He was a stone mason and was at one time with Mr Nathaniel Swett in the manufacture of brick, and in his death Brewer has lost a respected citizen of the strictest integrity. He leaves besides a widow to mourn his loss three sons, Frank H. and William H., of this city, and Luther, of Chelsea, Mass. The funeral is to occur to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

DeF. Champeon is making a movement for the formation of a Bell telephone exchange in Houlton, says the Times. It will be opened in the spring should sufficient encouragement be given by our business men. The central station will be in the Times block, Court street.

The following cars of freight cleared from the port of Fort Fairfield during the week ending February 14: Potatoes 48, starch, 6, bark, 2, shingles, 1, miscellaneous, 3. Total 60 cars.

A writer in the Aroostook Pioneer says: In the first place, dogging deer soon drives them out of the country. Then, as is now practiced, it is the lazy man's sport, for he procures a guide, sends the dogs after the deer while he takes the canoe, makes himself comfortable with his cigar and lazily awaits the coming of the hard-run, frightened creature, who rushes to the lake to escape the dogs, only to meet the bullet of this noble self styled sportsman. Should the deer take to the woods and three out of five will, he only meets a worse fate, for the dogs will tire out and kill him there, and there he is left. So far as the meat goes it is better left in the woods, for having been run, it is over heated and thoroughly unwholesome. Still hunting is a science and not one in ten who does it fairly will secure his game, but the sportsmen who have learned the art, are, as a rule, good rifle shots and rarely wound without killing their game. I hold to the opinion that the crust hunter, jacklight hunter and the man who takes a canoe and waits for his game, are not worthy the name of sportsmen, but the man who takes a canoe in July, when they know the moose, caribou and deer all must come to the water for protection from flies, and shoots them then, does not deserve to be called even a pot hunter. They may shoot a buck, but more than likely it is the mother, and the kids are left to starve. Island Falls and vicinity need looking after. Since the first of January up to the present date there have been a great many deer killed there, and any man of shrewdness could easily locate the crime. To such sportsmen I would suggest going to some farmer's cow stable and killing a calf.

The Surrey people were much disappointed Saturday by the non-appearance of the horse, Jumbo, which was to trot against Lady Chase at Wood's Pond, says the Ellsworth American. Lameness is the reason given for Jumbo's not being in condition to appear. It will be remembered that these famous trotters have met a number of times to contest their qualities of speed and especially last Thursday at Penobscot, where five heats of seven over a half mile course are claimed for Lady Chase although the two last heats were won by Jumbo. There seems to be some mistake about this trot as the people of Penobscot appeared to think that two heats out of seven won the victory and cheered Jumbo, decorating his driver Mr Wood Ridlon, with a symbol of victory, when in fact Mr E. E. Chase's mare had won five heats out seven. Notwithstanding the severity of the weather over three hundred people congregated on Wood's Pond to witness the trot. Mr E H Greeley of Ellsworth came over to drive Lady Chase.

The annual reports of the Rockland city officials are all in and make a gratifying showing. The city physician reports a very healthy year among the poor with no epidemics. The undertaker's report shows 162 interments, 33 being non-residents, a decrease of 29 from the preceding year. The only increase in mortality has been in persons over 70 years of age. The chief engineers report only 5 alarms of fire and no extensive or even serious conflagration. The city marshall's report gives the whole number of arrests as 295, of which 221 were for drunkenness. He recommends that a public administration be appointed to look after property of persons dying without relatives.

The setting aside of the will of Mrs Sarah M Pillsbury by the probate court of Boston, is an important matter. Mrs Pillsbury was the widow of the late Samuel Pillsbury, of Rockland, who left a large property. Mrs Pillsbury also left a handsome property. The contestants alleged undue influence in the case of Mrs Pillsbury on the part of George F Dinsmore, a grandson, who was named in the will as sole executor and trustee for the other grandchildren, who claim to have been practically disinherited by the will. By the decision of the probate judge in Boston, Mrs Pillsbury's estate will swell the general estate of her late husband which is in course of settlement. The amount involved is about $80,000.

A singular accident from somnambulism occurred at Spruce Head, last Monday night. Clarence Harrington, a young married man and a stonecutter, has occasionally walked in his sleep. On the night mentioned he arose from his bed, made his way to the window and struck his clenched fist through the glass, cutting his wrist so severely as to require medical assistance from the village of South Thomaston, three miles away. The blow and the cut awakened him.

There is a little romance in the announcement of the marriage at East Oakland, Cal., Feb. 5th, of Captain Thomas Dermot to Mrs Isabel Paine Cobb, of that place, says the Rockland correspondent of the Lewiston Journal. They were both born and brought up in Rockland, were near neighbors, fast friends, and had a strong attachment for each other. Time and circumstances separated them. Both married, lost their companions, and after all these years have united their hands and paths for the rest of this life, to the surprise of many friends there.

It is reported that work will soon start up at the Clark's Island Granite Works. At Spruce Head very little is doing in the granite line except in paving stones. Better prospects are said to be in store for the works there. Hurricane and Vinalhaven are doing considerable work.

The Belfast Water Company says that after the legislature extends their charter and franchise, it will be ready to build to Northport. The town however, and citizens, must show a disposition to take water. When that is done the company will go to work. The selectmen of Northport are already moving in the matter and doubtless something will be done at the coming spring election.

One of the members of Sanborn's orchestra had quite an experience on the trip to Fairfield and Skowhegan last week. In leaving the Belfast train at Burnham he forgot his grip. Conductor Mace found it, and just as the western train was leaving made an unsuccessful attempt to find the owner. On the return Mr. Mace reported that he had the grip in his possession and he proposed to bring it to the owner. The latter, however, insisted on going for it himself, but in returning to the passenger car from the baggage car lost his grip again, the article slipping from his grasp and falling on the track … ing how the accident took place she said "Bad luck to 'em. They are all humbugs. The celestial lights all ought to come down."

At the Red Beach granite works part of the work is being done on a monument to General Grant, and one of the blocks of red granite to be utilized for the purpose, and which was hauled from the quarry the other day, weighed over eleven tons.

The fourth annual concert and ball, with an exhibition drill by the Uniformed Rank K. of P., was held at the Opera House, Belfast, Wednesday evening and was successful in every way and the acknowledged event of the season. The icy streets and hills about Eastport have furnished great chances for coasting this winter, and old as well as young persons have been tempted at times to improve the opportunity for sport. The other day the burly form of Skipper Bill Darbury, "King of the haddock fleet," was seen on a double runner coming down Washington St. at break neck speed.

The Eastport Gas and Electric Company recently declared a dividend which was paid to stockholders this week.

Mr C. H. Newton, of Calais, has bought the sloop "Rock Mountain," … tons burthen of Portland for a lighter to be used on the St. Croix river in the business of the Red Beach Plaster Co.

Frank H. Peavey, Esq., of Minneapolis, one of our Eastport boys, says the Eastport Sentinel, who as a successful business man, is widely known in the west, being anxious to do something for his native town, and the memory of his father proposes to give ten thousand dollars to build here a public library. The gift is to be accompanied with certain conditions which will be announced in due time, and in consideration of the great benefits to be secured and the rare generosity of the donor, he will find our people disposed to do all in their power to meet his wishes. The town is to be congratulated upon the prospect of securing such a fine public edifice as this gift will provide, and its erection cannot fail to give an important impetus to our literary and educational interests. It will also have a right to be proud of this generous act on the part of one of its descendants. It is a notable coincidence that the three most prominent places in Washington county are to be the recipients of similar favors of great value. The late James S. Pike left to his native City of Calais the family homestead for the site of a public library and his brother F. A. Pike, and Freeman H. Todd each gave $5,000 for the erection of a suitable building, for which the plans are completed. Henry Porter, a prominent western railroad man and a native of Machias has given his native town $10,000 to build a library, and the site has been selected and plans agreed upon, and now comes Mr Frank H. Peavey's offer of $10,000 to Eastport, and it is hoped that ere long the necessary arrangements may be completed so that we will not be far behind our neighbors in point of time. Both Calais and Machias have the advantage of Eastport in one respect. The Eastport Athenæum was in its day a successful institution and though it had rather fallen into disuse on account of the removal and decease of active members its collection numbered some twelve hundred volumes of good literature. It was saved by removal in the fire of 1839 but lost in that of 1864 except a few books now in our public library. The social libraries which Calais and Machias started in those early years have been cared for and added to until the former has now some 1,500 volumes and the latter a fine large collection of books to go into the new buildings which will worthily house them. Our nucleus for the new library is not quite up to their standard but with the impetus which the prospect of a new building will give we ought not to lag far behind when the time comes for occupying it.

It is claimed that the largest lumber mill in the world is located at Port Blakely, 12 miles from Seattle, Wash. It gives employment to about 300 men, besides those at work in the woods and in other ways.

The sale by Mrs. King of Corpus Christi, the "the cattle queen" of Texas of 15,000 two-year-old steers is probably the largest single order for cattle ever filled in Texas. The consideration was $82,000. Mrs King's ranch is worth $900,000.

A Western knight of the shears says barbers are not anxious to see ladies enter the shop to get their hair cut, for no matter how pretty the dear creatures look after having their hair cut, they never look as well as they did before, and their first look in the glass makes the fact apparent to them, and they invariably blame the barber for it.

Astor Library has a total endowment of $1,969,999. The fund for the purchase of books amounts to $407,500, and for the maintenance of the library to $411,550. At the beginning of the year the number of volumes in the library was 235,101. The total number of readers in 1890 was 62,778, and the number of books called for was 167,584.

Worth, the Paris dressmaker, speaking of colors, says: "I always go to nature for my combinations, there is no surer guide. Not in the flowers so much, they are apt to be gaudy, as a rule, although I have made some beautiful things with their help, but in stones, lichens, the barks of trees, the combinations of tints are wonderful and may be taken as unfailing guides."

A year ago in old Trinity, New York, the Rev Dr Phillips Brooks gave the business men of that city some high noon Lenten talks that produced a really incomparable sensation in that Mammon-bent metropolis. This year the Boston preacher issues the following circular at home: "Short services for business men, with addresses by the Rev. Phillips Brooks at St Paul's Church, Tremont street, every Monday during Lent, at 12.10 noon. All are welcome."

The Youngstown (O.) Telegram has this note: "The other day one of the clerks at the Tod House remarked, as a frequent visitor to the hotel inscribed his name on the hotel register, 'I will assign you to room 13.' The commercial man almost gasped for breath as he exclaimed, 'No, you won't. I'll sleep on the office floor or in the wash room rather than retire in room 13.' The clerk, with a merry twinkle in the eye, rang the bell boy and, handing him a key, said, 'Show the gentleman to No. 72.' Afterward the clerk said: 'It's a fact not generally known to the outside world that there are but few hotels in the country that have rooms numbered either 13 or 113. Half the time they would be unoccupied, so superstitious are the traveling public."

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

Distress After Eating

Sick Headache — "I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business … Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

Whig and Courier.

BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE, Editor

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

SATURDAY FEBRUARY 21, 1891.

Driven to the Wall.

From an editorial in THE BANGOR WHIG it is gathered that that paper fears a secret ballot would be injurious to the Republican party of Maine. It is not complimentary to the party to suppose that a considerable proportion of those who usually act with it would, when freed from the oversight of their neighbors and "left alone with their conscience and a lead pencil," proceed to vote the Democratic ticket.—Portland Advertiser.

Our Australian ballot contemporaries have received such a set back that they are obliged to resort to the style of misrepresentation as an apology for an argument. THE WHIG has cast no reflections upon the integrity of Maine Republicans, it leaves that congenial work to the advocates of this new fad whose slanders are now going the rounds of the Democratic papers of the country. It matters not that their more prominent witnesses have repudiated the blatherskite charges, as the injury has been done and the lie finds its way almost daily into the columns of some Democratic sheet. The Australian ballot would be injurious to the Republicans because it is an annoyance that would keep many of them from the polls, just as it did in Massachusetts. They will not bother with a complicated system, especially if it is forced upon them against their wishes as it will be if adopted in this State. It has had this effect in Massachusetts and the loss of a Republican United States Senator in New York is attributed to the fact that enough Republicans were deterred from going to the polls to give the General Assembly to the Democrats.

We do not want this experience in Maine. A state that has "as pure a ballot as any State in the Union," certainly has no cause to load the statute books down with this needless legislation. The friends of the measure have been forced to admit that it is not adapted to this state; that it is complicated and cumbersome, and that their only hope of success is to change it by eliminating some of the features which up to this time they have contended were the very things that made it most desirable. In fact they have admitted so much that there is nothing left upon which to base an argument in its favor, a point clearly illustrated by the paragraph at the head of this article.

Nothing remains of the so called "ballot reform" movement except the desperate attempt of the few men who have been trying to make it appear that they had public sentiment behind them, to force the Legislature into voting them even a partial vindication. Instead of the boastful talk of a few weeks ago, the cry now is compromise. We believe this Legislature will decide that it has something of more importance to do than to help those men save themselves from a personal defeat by enabling them to succeed in using upon a portion of the State a law which they themselves concede is not adapted to the whole State. The present law is in successful operation, is simple and inexpensive and should not be disturbed.

The New Department Commander

Samuel L. Miller, the new Commander of the G. A. R., Department of Maine, was born in Waldoboro, March 25, 1844. He was educated in the common schools of his native town and at Warren Academy. He left his studies in August, 1862, to enlist as a private in Company E, 20th Maine Regiment, in which organization he served till the close of the war, being promoted to quartermaster sergeant and lieutenant of Company A. When he was 20 years old, he had acted as Regimental Quartermaster and Adjutant and had commanded his company, besides performing many other important duties. In 1869 he was appointed postmaster of Waldoboro by President Grant, a position which he held under successive Presidents, including Cleveland, until the first of the present month. Since 1873 he has been the editor and publisher of the Lincoln County News, a flourishing local newspaper. In the Grand Army he has always been a very active comrade. He was first mustered into the organization in 1867. He has served his post two terms as Commander, and is its present Adjutant. In the Department of Maine he has filled the position of Senior Vice Commander one term. He is a member of the Loyal Legion and a prominent Mason.

Used as Catspaws

New York Tribune.

The silver men have put the Election bill aside by their votes, but have discovered that they were used as catspaws by the Democracy and are now laughed at for supposing that Democratic votes for the silver bill were ever intended to pass it. The most prominent Democratic candidate for the Presidency comes forward to invite the approval of mankind by resisting free coinage, exactly as Republicans have been resisting it. His followers, whether many or few, are certainly enough to prevent the passage of any unlimited coinage bill over a veto. Under these circumstances, do silver senators feel satisfied with their position?

There never was any good reason for the defeat of the Election bill, except that certain silver Senators wanted Democratic support for their pet measure. It was in a peculiar degree a bill on which the decision of the House ought to have been accepted, because it concerned the election of members of the House and nothing else. There was something very like unfairness, not to say indecency, in the conduct of Republican Senators who had been pledged to support this measure, and who nevertheless refused, and assumed to dictate to the House how members of that body should be elected. No other measure was more explicitly required by pledges of the Republican National platform and no other was deemed by the Democratic party more dangerous to its future. In the face of its virtual confession that it meant to carry elections by fraud, and that this was necessary to Democratic success, a few Senators were found to help that party in its emergency.

It is not too late for the silver Senators, or enough of them, to show that they will not be assistant Democrats any longer. Their obligation they have met only too well, as respects the Democratic party, and they are left stranded between the two parties, used as tools but not rewarded by one, and justly censured as faithless to pledges by the other. It is no more than their obvious duty to Republican associates in the House to assist in passing the Election bill, if that is still possible; and they have learned by this time that in sacrificing Democratic gratitude or favor, they sacrifice nothing.

It takes some courage to retrace a false step, to be sure. But the silver Senators must now realize that the popular outcry upon which they relied is not so important as their instinct [illegible] disposed to hold to strict accountability those who help the Democratic party to carry elections by fraud. The plea that some other legislation might fail if an effort should be made again to pass the Election bill is not worth considering. The measure upon which honesty of elections depends is far more important to the country than any other on which the Senate has to act. If Democratic delays render an extra session unavoidable, that party will have to bear the responsibility.

Not Logical or Consistent.

[Portland Evening Express.]

The proposition to exclude small country towns from the alleged benefits of the Australian system, though acceptable to many of its friends, does not seem to be a logical or consistent one. The system is advertised as a panacea for bribery and intimidation. If it is such, there is no good reason why it should not apply to the entire State; if it is not, there is none for its application anywhere. Why should the few voters in small towns be subjected to the "slavery" of an open system of voting, while their brothers in the cities are permitted to cultivate that manly independence of citizenship which it is said can only be attained in the seclusion which an Australian cloister is supposed to grant? In proportion to the number of voters there is just as much liability to corruption and intimidation, and a great deal more to embarrassment in open voting, in small as in larger towns. Confusion which in close elections will be annoying and dangerous, is sure to result from this attempt to feed flesh to one and fish to another class of towns.

The Legislators to Hold a Saturday Saturday.

[Special Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

AUGUSTA, Feb. 20. The hearing which attracted the largest crowd yesterday was that before the Judiciary Committee on the removal of the restrictions placed by the order of Iron Hall two years ago. During the session a large number of petitions favoring the removal of the restrictions have been presented and yesterday many of the petitioners were present.

The case for the petitioners was opened by J. H. Butler, Esq., of Boston who explained the principles and purposes of the order and the benefits derived from it by its members. He was followed by several members of the order who spoke strongly in its favor. The closing argument was made by Judge Symonds of Portland.

Hon. L. G. Downes of the Lincoln Council, was before the Judiciary Committee on the bill to authorize the town of Washington to aid in the construction of the Shore Line railroad.

Mr. Downes explained the intent of the bill, which are that the county shall guarantee for a term of thirty years 6 per cent. interest on $650,000 bonds of the road, and the bonded indebtedness of the road shall not exceed $2,000 per mile. The bill providing that licenses granted under false names of fictitious persons fraudulently competing for purses shall be forfeited, is assigned for next Tuesday for consideration.

The appropriation bill for the academies in the State was up for discussion in the House to-day and was passed by a large vote. As the funds are drawn these appropriations are to be taken from the general fund and a bill has been introduced providing that the sum so appropriated shall be taken from the school fund.

There is some opposition to the bill and quite likely that the matter will be discussed. The feeling toward the academies is most friendly, the only question being as to the appropriation of the money shall be taken from

In the House this morning a large number of remonstrances came in against the repeal of the law relating to migratory fish. Col. W. H. Fogler appeared against the repeal of the law.

The bill ratifying the sale of the Knox & Lincoln railroad passed the House this morning and will no doubt pass the Senate when it reaches that body.

Quite a party from the Augusta House attended the dance at the Insane Hospital last evening.

The second in the course of dances at the Augusta House occurred this evening.

Hon. Henry Lord, Hon. L. A. Emery, W. P. Hubbard, Esqs., and ex-Governor J. H. Davis are among those here from Bangor to-day.

The Senate and the House voted for sessions to-morrow.

Representative Peaks occupied the Speaker's chair at a portion of the morning session to-day.

The wife of Representative Lowe of Orono, is with him at the Augusta House.

Mrs. Senator Ryder returned home on visit to Portland yesterday.

Senator Thatcher goes to Bangor to-night. Mrs. Thatcher will remain in Augusta.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The Senate Considers the Nicaragua Bill.

The Democrats Again Play Hide and Seek,

But Fail in their Effort to Stop Business in the House.

Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb 20 The Senate proceeded to the consideration of Pension bills and 130 pension bills were passed in 60 minutes

Among them is one giving a pension of $50 to the widow of Wm Steedman and one giving $12 a month to Mary Morgan Edson of Vermont, six of whose sons served in the Union army during the rebellion

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Nicaragua Canal bill giving the guarantee of the government to the company's four per cent bonds to the amount of a hundred million dollars.

Mr Edmunds supported the bill

Mr Stewart gave notice of an amendment providing that the Chief of Engineers of the Army shall have supervision and control of the construction of the canal, and the work be subject to the laws, rules and regulations of Congress or the War Department

Without action the Senate, after a short executive session, adjourned

House

Mr Cannon of Illinois, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution for the immediate consideration of business reported by the Committee on Judiciary, the first to be the bill for the relief of the Supreme Court with the Senate amendment and the next the bill to fix the salaries of United States Judges.

Mr Breckinridge, of Kentucky, raised the question of consideration.

The House decided to consider the resolution

Mr Blount of Georgia, moved to table the resolution. Lost.

Mr. Cannon took the floor, stating that he would say a few words as to the merits of the proposition

Mr McMillin, of Tennessee, enquired whether the object of the gentleman in saying a few words was not to prevent the forty minutes debate under the rules.

After the previous question had been ordered, Mr Cannon replied that he would answer frankly in the affirmative.

In view of the motions already made on the Democratic side under lead of the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr McMillin) the Republicans accepted the notice of the gentlemen on the Democratic side that they did not desire to facilitate business. He would make a few remarks and then demand the previous question.

Mr. McMillin inquired whether it was the gentleman's purpose to attack him and his motives, then move the previous question and cut off debate

Mr. Cannon disclaimed having made an attack on anybody.

Mr McMillin said this was a proposition to increase the salaries of judges while appropriation bills are still pending.

Mr Cannon replied it was a proposition to put the court and salary bills into a conference if the majority wished so to do.

Mr. McMillin responded that the gentleman had announced the programmes and after talking a few moments would shut off debate If that programme is to be pursued the Democrats would meet it at every point.

Mr. Cannon said he would yield the gentleman from Tennessee three minutes He wanted the gentleman to have a chance to get all the bile off his stomach.

Mr E. B Taylor—Why is the gentleman from Tennessee so excited?

Mr. McMillin—Because I see you propose to plunder the Treasury. (Democratic applause, and jeers from the Republican side)

Mr Blount of Georgia, moved to recommit the resolution with instructions to report it back after the pending appropriation bills are passed.

Mr Cannon—The gentleman does not deceive even himself by that proposition

Mr Blount—The gentleman does not try to deceive anybody

The Democrats demanded a division on Mr Blount's motion.

To save time the Republicans called for and, on a standing vote, ordered the yeas and nays

Mr McMillin asked for tellers on yeas and nays

He strenuously objected to the Speaker's refusal to entertain his demand.

The clerk proceeded to call the roll and following the precedent set at the last session the great body of Democrats left the hall.

The vote resulted Yeas 13, nays 150, the clerk voting a sufficient number to constitute a quorum.

The motion was lost and the question recurred on the demand for the previous question.

Having demanded the yeas and nays, Mr. McMillin by the signal of his hand, directed the Democrats in the cloak rooms to come forward to his support.

Having obeyed the signal long enough to accomplish Mr. McMillin's object, the Democrats once more disappeared.

The vote concluded, Mr. McMillin demanded a recapitulation, a demand the Speaker declined to entertain on the ground that it was for the purpose of delay

Mr. McMillin retorted it was a delay that never had been denied by any predecessor of the present Speaker.

"Precisely," answered the Speaker, "the rules have been changed."

The Speaker declared the motion carried—yeas 150, nays 8, a quorum being voted.

The resolution was agreed to—yeas 155, nays 4

Under its provisions the court bill was immediately taken up for consideration and the reading of the Senate amendment was concluded precisely at 2 30, the time fixed for ordering the previous question.

The Speaker put the question whether the Senate amendment be non-concurred in Pending an announcement of the vote another colloquy took place between the Speaker and Mr. McMillin, the Speaker remarking that the gentleman from Tennessee must have the last word, and the latter retorting that he did not care to wrangle with the Speaker.

The Speaker announced that the Senate amendment was non-concurred in—166 to 0

A conference was ordered.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bill fixing the salaries of United States District Judges.

Mr. McMillin and Mr. Cheadle opposed the bill as extravagant.

Mr. Caswell, of Wisconsin, favored it,

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Some One's Blunder on the Signals the Cause

Of the Frightful Accident in New York Tunnel.

Fearful Scenes Witnessed in the Rescue of Bodies.

Escape from More Serious Disaster Almost Miraculous.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. Four men and two women were killed this morning by the collision of trains in the long Fourth avenue tunnel through which the New York Central, Harlem, New York and New Haven railroads reach the Grand Central station.

Two Wagner sleeping cars were wrecked and partly burned and other railroad property. The fire was caused by the overturning of a Baker heater.

The bodies of the dead were so badly charred that it was difficult to identify them. A mistake in the signals is supposed to have caused the disaster, although this is not definitely settled.

Louis G. Fowler, an engineer employed by the New York & New Haven, was arrested and Held Without Bail.

Traffic was delayed ten hours on the main line All the trains were dispatched through side tunnels and none was more than an hour behind time.

The accident was the worst that has befallen the Central Railroad in the city limits, except the wreck in the Spuyten Duyvil cut in which Senator Wagner was burned to death, or the smashup in the same tunnel on the identical spot of to-day's horror six or seven years ago.

The regular New Haven accommodation train, carrying a load of passengers, left the Grand Central at 7 02. Ahead of it was the Boston and Albany express with a score or more of car cleaners aboard going toward the shops at Mott Haven, where it was to be "laid up" and cleaned. It left the Grand Central station at 6 49 and had a speed of six miles an hour.

The Heavy Atmosphere

prevented the tunnel from clearing itself of the steam and smoke and it was difficult to see the white, green and red signal lamps on the walls at 72nd street

Fireman Charles Wellington, who was watching the signals, told Engineer Louis Fowler that the light signalled "all clear." At a point about half way between 84th and 85th streets the engine hurled itself against the rear of the Boston and Albany express, wrecking the smoking car and driving it partly through the palace car to which it was coupled

Both trains came to a stand still within a quarter of a minute The engineer of express did not know when his train was struck, but felt the cars pulling very hard while his engine began to stop. The of the rear two coaches put on the automatic brakes. Fowler and Wellington jumped from the engine as it crashed into the smoker and the former was slightly injured. He was able to take care of his engine.

The tunnel was filled with wreckage by the collision.

A moment after it occurred a light switch engine on the down track ran into it and jumped the track and turned partly across the tunnel. Six men were on it but none was hurt. The telescoped cars and the mass of broken timbers and splinters took fire immediately. The smoke attracted the attention of people in the neighborhood.

Those near heard the shrieks and calls for help and rendered all possible assistance Two fire alarms brought six engines, which soon began playing on the flames. Ladders were brought and let down through the opening.

Burned and Breathless Men, coal black with smoke, with clothes blazing began to crawl up through the air vent. When no more came up the firemen went down with axes and broke into the wreck from which the flames were rising. Out of a broken window in the last car where the engine of the accommodation train had pinned him fast hung a man crying wildly for help. No other cry rose then from the pile. A dozen axes smashed the wood work that held him, and he was taken out. He was a carcleaner. The work of taking out the dead proceeded. Everybody brought out was steamed as if parboiled, in addition to being burned. It was hard work to

Identify the Remains

Mrs. Nellie Supple, of 989 Third avenue, was found by her son at the 88th street police station. He knew her only by a finger ring, which was all the flames left upon her body. Another victim was a man, legless, both lower limbs being burned off.

It was not likely the names of all the victims will be known till the census of the employes of the yard is taken and the missing ones accounted for. Without exception all were employed directly or indirectly by the organization known as the "Grand Central station." Most were car cleaners

Four Men were Injured.

Supt. Shepherd, of the New Haven road says, Fowler and the fireman reported to him as soon as possible after the accident Both claim the signals showed clear and that they were white lights. Neither knew of the existence of the yard train until their engine crashed into it.

The following statement was made by Vice President Webb, of the New York Central: "The accident happened in what is known as the Harlem line, operated and managed by the organization known as the Grand Central station. It includes all the tracks between Forty Second street and Mott Haven Junction. There is a general elected by the Central, Harlem and New Haven roads He has entire control of the operations of the line between the points named In his report of the accident he says that the engineer and firemen of the New Haven train claim the signal was clear.

"The operator had not cleared the signals and his statement is substantiated by the track walker and track foreman, who say they saw the 72nd street signal at danger when the New Haven train passed. The signals are interlocked, and it is impossible to clear the 72nd street signal when a train is in the section, which was the case on this occasion.

Affecting Scenes in the Passage of the Sherman Train.

School Children and Veterans Do Him Honor.

Strains of "Nearer My God to Thee" Heard at Stations.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 20. The Sherman funeral train ran into an open switch at Mansfield, Pa., this morning. The train was going slowly at the time, which alone prevented a collision. The train lost but five minutes time.

Early this morning thousands gathered along the line to see the Sherman funeral train pass.

At every suburban station people uncovered their heads in humble respect to the dead hero.

In the city, as the train passed, bells were tolled and minute guns were fired from the hillsides, while all the flags were dropped at half mast in the pouring rain.

Offering of Love.

DENNISON, Ohio, Feb. 20. The departure from Pittsburg was at 7.10. Breakfast was served as soon as the train had got outside of the city limits. After breakfast the members of the family went forward to the car containing the remains of the loved one and remained there for a short time.

They found several beautiful floral pieces that had been put on board by Grand Army posts during the night at different points along the route.

Many Requests

had been received from Grand Army posts at towns in the West through which the train was to pass that it might be allowed to stop at those places and the car be opened to the veterans. Gen. Howard had to refuse all the requests, as to comply with them would delay the progress of the train too much.

At Caly's Junction a number of Grand Army veterans were on the platform holding the remnants of a battle flag. At Scio the G. A R. post paraded in front of the depot. Dennison was reached at 10.50 and a stop of five minutes made to let a mail train pass.

Honored by Veterans and Children

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 20. When the Sherman funeral train passed Dennison a large crowd was gathered at the station, including comrades of Welch Post 423, G. A. R., of Uhrichsville, O. The door of the funeral car was opened and they were allowed to take a look at the casket.

After a short stop the train resumed its westward journey, passing many small way stations where were gathered the residents of the places and generally several old soldiers. At some of these towns the local band was at the depot and played a dirge as the train passed. At New Comerstown all the public school at the street crossings with heads uncovered, carrying small flags edged with black.

As the train passed by they could be heard singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

The Grand Army Post and company of Sons of Veterans were at the depot to do honor to the departed soldier.

At 1.25 the train stopped at Newark. Here Mrs. Judge Granger and son, Sherman Granger, got on the train. Lemert Post, G. A. R., had about 100 men in line on the platform and their fife and drum corps played as the train came to a stop. The doors of the car in which was the body were opened, and the veterans were allowed to take a look at the casket.

The entire trip from Pittsburg to this point were interspersed with demonstrations of sorrow. As the train rolled into the Union station the space either side was crowded with people, for squares away was a mass of people struggling to get a view of the train. No particular demonstration was made.

After a wait of forty-five minutes the train passed on.

To Receive the Remains.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20. The train bearing Gen Sherman's is expected to arrive here between eight and nine to-morrow morning.

The Grand Army men will guard the body till 10 30 when Gen. Merritt and a body of U S. troops will receive it and march to the point where the cortege is to be formed.

From there the procession will march to Calvary Cemetery, where Father Sherman, the General's son, will officiate at the grave.

THE WORST FOR YEARS.

A Serious Storm Prevailing in Many Western States.

Telegraph Communication Greatly Interrupted and Trains Running Blindly Trough the Fog Without Orders.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. Reports received here show that a terrific snow, sleet and rain storm is raging from the Alleghany Mountains as far west as Kansas.

In Illinois and Missouri the storm is especially severe.

In Illinois and Iowa fruit trees are broken down under the weight and street cars will be forced to suspend traffic.

In Wisconsin the snow storm generally caused considerable delay of trains.

In South Dakota and many points in western and southern Minnesota, the heaviest storm of the winter is raging. It is snowing furiously, and the wind has drifted the light snow to such an extent that the cable roads and trains are Seriously Delayed.

Telegraphic communication with several states is almost at a standstill. The storm last night was the most serious in its effects on telegraphic communication experienced for many years. This morning nearly every train dispatchers office in the city was silent. The trains in every direction are making their way through the fog as best they can without running orders. Fortunately no serious accidents have occurred. Later in the day when the sleet melted and fell from the wires the linemen were enabled to and communication was established for short distances. The lines running through Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota suffered most heavily.

The storm was very severe and poles and wires went down together over long stretches. Toward the southwest, south and east the same condition prevailed. At the office of the Western Union it was said the company suffered more than at any time since 1883.

This morning the only communication was northward.

The Maine legislators, as well as other citizens of the State and Augusta citizens who have had occasion to utilize in the past Granite Hall, which was destroyed by fire, will be pleased to learn that there is every prospect that it will soon be rebuilt. Hon. J. Manchester Haynes, of Augusta, has purchased the Ricker interest in this property and it is understood that, in company with Mr. Homan, he will soon erect a building upon the site of the old one that will be vastly its superior in every respect. This will be a permanent improvement that will be appreciated by all.

THE SPRING MEDICINE.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong. D

There is no season in the entire year when people should be more careful with reference to their health than the present. Colds are very prevalent and they are liable to result in pneumonia People should be very careful about changing their winter clothing for something lighter.

The ladies of the Columbia street church are arranging, for next Tuesday evening, another of their delightful New England suppers. An enjoyable programme will be carried out and there will doubtless be the usual large attendance which they have had in the past at these suppers.

The Maine Central Railroad is considering the project of sending an elaborate display of pictures illustrating the picturesque scenery along its line to the World's Fair at Chicago It would be a great help in advertising our State and should be supplemented by specimens of the natural products of our soil

The Washington entertainment at the First Parish church is to be on Monday evening, and not Tuesday, as erroneously stated yesterday morning This "Washington Pinafore" was originally given in Smith College by some of the students who composed it, and has never been presented in this city. It is bright and entertaining.

The meetings at Veazie have continued with interest throughout the week and quite a number have made a start in the Christian life. Last evening Mr. Young and Mr. Sanborn, of the Seminary, assisted in the meeting. This evening a delegation from the Young Men's Christian Association of several young men will go up. Special meetings will be held Sunday afternoon and evening.

Sisterhood lodges of the Knights of Pythias are being formed in the State by the wives and daughters of the Knights and the order is on the increase. There are now about 2,000 belonging to the order, which is about two years old. It is something similar to the order of Daughters of Rebekah formed of the wives and daughters of Odd Fellows, which has a very flourishing branch in this city.

Among those from away who will attend the Governor's reception, at Augusta, Monday, is a delegation from the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, who have informed the Maine members of that order that they will be present in full uniform on Monday. They will arrive Sunday afternoon and will be met by Gen. Sprague, Col. Philbrook, Col. Choate and Col. Stevens, members of the Ancients.

Strangers as well as residents of the city evidently appreciate the excellent condition in which the streets are kept in winter as well as summer and the following item from an exchange demonstrates the fact: "Bangor has won the reputation of having the best winter streets of any city in Maine. The superfluous snow has been hauled off and dumped into the river and just enough left to make perfect sleighing."

At the meeting of the Armeda Reform Club, in the Crusade Parlors, on Franklin street, President Norwood presided, and the speakers were Messrs. C. E. Pomeroy, J. F. Stevens, W. Rice, Rev. Mr. Graham, Mr. Jefferds, Mr. Batchelder, Rev. Mr. Patten and Mr. Black. Mrs. Chase sang with excellent effect. Mr. Melvin and Mrs. Chase asked for signers to the pledge and twelve responded. The meeting was one of much interest.

The Colby juniors are hard at work upon their essays, with a view to the approaching prize debate. From the whole number the writers of six of them will be designated as disputants, three upon each side, and of course there is much speculation to know who the elect may be. The debate will occur the latter part of March in Memorial Hall and will be free to all, to the extent of the capacity of the room. It is expected that the music will be by the Ladies' Orchestra of Waterville, of itself a great attraction.

The quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Maine Baptist Missionary Convention will be held in Augusta on Monday next. At this meeting the Secretary makes his report, showing what churches have been assisted, and returns are also presented from these societies and take such action as they may deem for the best. It is understood that the Board will get together in good season, work diligently and adjourn early so that the members may attend the Governor's reception at the State House which occurs the same evening.

On Wednesday of next week one hundred years will have passed since the incorporation of Bangor as a town. Previous to that time it was known as Condeskeag Plantation. In late years the Indian name has been in use as "Kenduskeag." The city was incorporated in 1834. There has been some talk of celebrating the 100th anniversary on Wednesday, and a number of the older citizens are now consulting in regard to the matter, and it is possible that a programme may be arranged although there is not enough time between now and Wednesday for any elaborate celebration.

The friends in this city and vicinity of Miss Mary Patton Sampson, formerly of Bath, will extend their congratulations upon her marriage with Mr. William Moore Hatch, of Stafford, Vt., which occurred at Washington, D. C., Monday evening, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah Sampson. Rev. Dr. Hamlin officiated. Quite a large number of their friends called to congratulate them after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hatch left on the evening train for a wedding tour to the South.

Rev. H. L. Hallock, of Waterville will lecture next Monday evening in the Central church under the auspices of the Willing Workers society and for its benefit, the lecture not being one of those in the Central Club course. Rev. Mr. Hallock is well known in this city, where he has often spoken in the Central church as an able and eloquent speaker, and he will be heard with pleasure and profit upon the subject "The Sandwich Islands." As Mr. Hallock has visited these interesting islands he will be enabled to speak from personal observation, which fact will add to the interest of the lecture There will doubtless be a large attendance to hear him.

The Rockland Free Press announces that Steward A. R. Warner, of the steamer Lewiston, has been obliged to resign his position on account of ill health Mr. Warner commenced steamboat life at the age of thirteen and has followed it ever since, having been on the Lewiston ever since she was transferred to the Bangor line. "Old Man Warner," as he was more familiarly known, will be greatly missed by those who travel on the boats, the hearty grasp of the hand and the painstaking care for the comfort of the passengers which he always accorded to all making many a tedious journey almost pleasant, while his successor, Mr. Harry Nevins, of Bucksport, is very popular and will have the best wishes of all in his new position.

It looks as though Maine would be represented in the New England Base Ball League, as Portland citizens seem to be in favor of having a team. At a meeting held Thursday Messrs. Leonard and Putnam were present. Speaking of the new league they say that they have met with success in every city they have visited, and that there are cities ready to take the place of Portland should this city not be represented. If Portland is represented the League will consist of Haverhill, Brockton, Lowell, Lynn, Salem, Manchester, Lawrence and Portland. A meeting of the League will be held sometime next week, after which a committee will again visit Portland and organize a stock company, and if a sufficient amount of the stock is disposed of the city will be represented by a first class team.

WILL SOON RECEIVE ARMS Several new camps of the order of the Sons of Veterans have been formed in this State within the past year, and the order is having a prosperous growth. Daniel Chaplin Camp, of this city, is one of the flourishing organizations, and it has a large membership. A new camp has been lately organized in Waterville. Their application to the Adjutant General for guns, has been favorably considered, and as soon as the arms are received at Augusta from Washington, they will be forwarded to Waterville The camp there now comprises about forty members in good standing, but several of them are away. The average attendance at the meetings is about twenty, and new members are being received. As soon as the arms are received, regular and frequent drills will be held, and by Memorial Day the Camp will be in shape to make a fine appearance

ATKINSON HOUSE FURNISHING CO. The annual general meeting of The Atkinson House Furnishing Company was held Thursday afternoon at the offices of the company at Portland. The report of the treasurer, Mr. Frank N. Deane, showed a marked increase in the volume of business transacted during the past year, and although a season of business depression has been passed through the company was able to add to the surplus, in addition to paying the usual semi-annual dividends of five per cent. The president, Mr. Isaac C Atkinson, reviewed the year's business and advocated the advantage of increasing the capital stock to $1,000,000, part of which could be available in case of such an emergency in the future. It was unanimously voted to issue an additional $500,000. The addition to the capital enables the company to carry out its long cherished idea of establishing branch stores throughout New Hampshire and Vermont, thus completely covering Eastern New England and making it more convenient for residents on the line of the Portland and Rochester, as also the Mountain Division of the Maine Central railroad and Boston and Maine to do their shopping at home instead of patronizing other States. The old board of directors was re elected and at a subsequent meeting Isaac C. Atkinson was re-elected president and general manager of the company.

"Song Pictures of the War."

B. H. Beale Post, No. 12, G A. R., contemplates arranging a musical entertainment called "Song Pictures of the War," such as have been so successful in the West wherever presented.

Mr. A. D. Harlow has kindly offered to superintend the affair and drill the chorus which will consist of about forty voices, male and female. It is not decided what songs to use, but there will be no lack of material, as the war period was fruitful of good and patriotic songs, and ballads and the older portion of the community will doubtless be pleased to have an opportunity to hear them again, while to the young, the patriotic music is ever a source of inspiration.

The members of the Post are entitled to, and we bespeak for them, the most liberal patronage in their undertaking, as the profits derived from the entertainment will be devoted to the building fund for the Memorial Hall. Some of our best soloists will be invited to assist in making the programme a success.

OBITUARY.

Frederick W. Nichols.

Mr. Frederick W. Nichols died yesterday morning at his residence on First street, after a lingering illness of about a year, and the announcement will be received with sorrow by his friends in this city and elsewhere. The cause of his death was a cancerous growth on the tongue, and although Mr. Nichols received skilled medical treatment, his life could not be saved.

Mr. Nichols, who was the oldest son of Mr. Lemuel Nichols, was born in East Corinth, September 10th, 1852, and was therefore thirty-eight years of age. He had been manager of the stage line from Dexter to Moosehead Lake, for Morison & Hunting, proprietor of the stage line between this city and Belfast, and proprietor of the Cleaves Hotel at Stockton, and in later years he had been proprietor of a stable on Columbia street in this city. In 1874 he married Miss Georgia E. Campbell, of Dexter, who with one son survives

DISPUTED HORSE FLESH.

Mrs. Frank Butler Says She Was Trampled Upon and Badly Injured by a Horse Led by J. M. Jewett.

On Monday an assault case which has created considerable interest, will come up before the Municipal Court. It was occasioned by the disputed ownership of a horse. It seems that J. M. Jewett, and Frank Butler have had some kind of a business partnership and recently there has been a dispute between them regarding the horse which each claimed was his own property. Mr. Butler has had the animal in his stable at the head of Lincoln street, and Jewett concluded that he would take a turn at keeping the horse. He went to Butler's stable during his absence and was about to enter when Mrs. Butler, who had seen his approach, stepped before him and locked the door of the stable.

Mrs. Butler says that Jewett then became angry and struck her, knocking her down. She says that he then proceeded to force open the door, enter the stable, cut the halter which held the horse in his stall and lead the animal out over her as she lay prostrate in the doorway unable to rise. As the horse passed over her he stepped upon her, injuring her quite badly, making several cuts and bruises Jewett then led the horse away to his house. Finally Mrs. Butler was able to reach the house and upon the arrival of Mr. Butler some time afterwards a physician was sent for, who gave her the necessary attention

Mr. Butler then consulted Allen & Harriman, the well known detective firm, and a warrant was issued for Jewett's arrest It was served by Detective Harriman and the case was to have been before the Municipal Court yesterday, but as Mrs Butler's injuries would not allow her to appear as a witness at that time it was postponed until Monday Jewett denies having been the cause of Mrs Butler's injuries and says that she hurt herself The case will be thoroughly sifted at the trial and full justice will doubtless be done

The Lothrop Dramatic Stock Company

The Lothrop Dramatic Stock Company gave "The Banker's Daughter" at the Opera House last night, before another audience of good proportions, and the presentation gave satisfaction to those who witnessed it. The company is playing at popular prices and gives a good entertainment for the money

This afternoon "The Banker's Daughter" will be repeated and this evening "The Octoroon" will be given

Mankind

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next the Boston Theatre Company will play Mankind The play is an English melodrama of the most pronounced type. The young man, who is in love with his employer's daughter and who is accused of a theft, which of course he did not commit, the noble girl, who loves the accused through thick and thin, the villians, who have possession of a will which leaves a huge fortune to certain worthy persons, the young wife, who is nearly murdered by her scamp of a husband that he may marry the sweetheart of the hero, the little waif, who meets her mother in every act, but does not find out the relationship until the curtain falls, the old woman, who abuses the child and the good people who protect her, are all here. But, if the authors have not gone far from the beaten track, they have at least given to their piece one new character—a hoary villain, over one hundred years of age. The scene in which a little child throws overboard a life-preserver, which saves the life of her mother, and that in which a large yacht, with full sails, tacks in full view of the audience, and is managed so that the hero can rescue the floating woman from the angry waves, are thrilling scenes.

RUSSIA AND THE ROMANOFFS,

Or the Lands of the White Czar

Another crowd as large as on the first evening attended Mr C. E. Bolton's lecture on "Russia and the Romanoffs" or "The Lands of the White Czar," the second in the course of illustrated lectures now being given by him in the Pine street church.

The first picture was a map of Europe, showing Russia, of which the speaker gave an outline of the size and position. It has territory in Asia equal to two-thirds of the United States and in Europe thirty times the size of Great Britain. At Odessa passports were produced, which bearing the name of our Secretary of State admitted the travellers to the domains of the Czar. A few views of this "Chicago of Russia" as it is sometimes called and the trip was continued to Moscow, where fine views were given of the principal attractions and those most intimately connected with the history of this great country The "Tower of Ivan the Terrible" was shown in all its splendor and the audience were then given pictures of some of the grandest and most elegant buildings in the world Interspersed with these views of places were the portraits of the men who have ruled Russia since Peter, the constant review of the political events of the rule of the line of the Romanoffs, the burning of Moscow by Napoleon followed by his forced retreat and the building up and extension of the empire pursued by its rulers

With the lecturer's description aided by the views the audience could follow steadily the course of the empire through the rulings of the different monarchs who have occupied the throne down to Alexander II who is called the Abraham Lincoln of Russia, as it was his hand that signed away the slavery of the serfs, and thus gave them opportunity to procure their freedom, yet he died by the hand of a Nihilist, and Alexander III, who is a giant in strength, now rules over his people It has been and still is the determination of the Russians to control the whole East and the lecturer believes that the Eastern question will be settled when Russia not only includes [illegible] but a part of Asia and Constantinople [illegible] to the desire of Peter the Great, becomes the capital of the Russian Empire

This afternoon at 4 Mr. Bolton will speak on "Lands of the Midnight Sun" and in the evening at 8 on Beautiful Switzerland the playground of Europe.

TROUBLE.

There is sorrow that enough the world to repine;
There is grief in the world, little man,
It will not grow too happy in your time or mine
If we make some one glad when we can.

There are tears—far more plenty than spring's early flowers—
We may find them wherever we go;
Let us heed that no look, word or action of ours
Will cause even one more to flow

There is trouble enough in the world, little maid,
There is trouble enough and to spare;
Let's keep ours to ourselves, we need not be afraid
That the others will not have a share.

Hints for a Bachelor.

An infant may be as old as Methuselah or as young as a baby ephemeron for all you can tell. Now, you need just one suggestion to help you out. It is this: If the baby is in long clothes call it a year old. It won't be, but that's part of the diplomacy. If it's in short clothes and can't talk call it 5 years. It won't be that, but that's more diplomacy. If it can talk call it anywhere from 6 to 8 years old.

This is the course which things may then be confidently expected to take: The mother proudly exhibits her offspring. Bearing in mind the rules here laid down you say of a long skirted youngster, "What a remarkably developed child for one a year old!"

"But it's really only six months, you know," answers the mother, indulgently unmindful of your mistake because of the flattery it implies.

In the case of a short skirted, nonlocomotive youngster you will be safe in saying, "Isn't this a wonderfully fine baby for one four or five years old?" You may be years out; of physical reckoning again, but the mother will soon see that it is the precocity of the infant that has misled you, and as before she will pardon much.

Remember this as you would the Ten Commandments: Always add to the age of a baby and subtract from the age of its mother. No matter how far astray you may go it will never be treasured up against you.—New York Evening Sun

No Need of "Beauty Sleep."

It is all nonsense about "beauty sleep" coming in the hours before midnight, and that the rosy cheek on the country lass is the reward for retiring at the time when the proverbially pale faced city girl's evening commences. The late hours of fashionable life would not necessarily scatter the roses from the cheek if the late hour for retiring could be the same every night without variation. It [illegible] is irregular hours and meals that cause pale and haggard faces. The handsomest couple I ever saw retired regularly at 11:30, and always indulged in a light lunch just before retiring. They were both pictures of health

The lady did not look over 25, though she never hesitated to say that she was 28 years old, and the husband looked at least ten years younger than he really was. They were both devotees to the laws of health. For years they had allowed nothing to interfere with the regularity of sleeping and eating hours. Almost the midnight hour was chosen for retiring because it allowed them evenings at the theatre and an hour or so at even the most fashionable receptions. When alone in their home they never indulged in an earlier hour.—Chicago Herald.

Advice for Speakers.

One of the common mistakes made by the tyro in public speaking is that of exhausting his subject and his audience at the same time. By too great discursiveness the pith of the subject is lost, and what might have been a victory is turned into signal defeat. To save such a disaster one should think carefully upon any subject before attempting to talk upon it, and in the thinking keep strictly to the salient points and the simplest possible form of giving them expression.

Only the born orator, the genius, may safely venture into the flower garden of speech and indulge in glowing and highly colored perorations. To the ordinary speaker close attention to facts and simple statement in well chosen and convincing language are the safest and surest means of winning golden opinions for self and success for one's cause at the same time.—Jenness-Miller Magazine

Twenty years ago no photograph was more often seen than that of President Lincoln sitting with a big book on his knee, and his little son Tad leaning against him and looking at it with him. The book was then thought to be a Bible, but it wasn't. It was Photographer Brady's picture album, which the president was examining with his son while some ladies stood by. The artist begged the president to remain quiet, and the picture was taken.

Sailors are a bowlegged class. An old salt always walks as if he were on the deck of a ship, and he never takes great strides like a landsman. He is used to having to walk great distances, in his imagination, on the quarter deck, and he can't get rid of the habit of making the most of his promenade.

A new leather dressing is a stuffing or filling compound in which are employed neatsfoot oil, beeswax, extract of logwood, borax, castile soap and other ingredients, in specified proportions, in order to soften and polish as well as preserve leather.

Senator Morrill, in spite of his 80 years, is devoted heart and soul to the improvement of the Capitol building at Washington. It is to him that is to be given the credit for the beautiful terraces which add so much of elegance and beauty to the Capitol building

Banker Isidor Wormser, of New York, probably spends as much money for cigars during a day as any other man in the city. He smokes from fifteen to twenty cigars a day. The Perfecto is his favorite brand and they cost him twenty cents apiece.

Capt. Watts' Gift to Thomaston.

One of the most pathetic scenes witnessed in this state for a long time marked the exercises attending the presentation of the new building to the town of Thomaston, Me., by Capt. Samuel Watts. The old captain had a falling out with the town a number of years ago, and he cleared out, with all his taxable property, going to Boston. In later years his heart changed and he made the town the munificent gift. Said he, when he made his little speech:

"I am human. I have my likes and dislikes, which is applicable to most of mankind. I have lived to the age of more than threescore-and-ten—eight years more. Mr. Chairman and citizens of Thomaston, I say to one and all I stand before you willing to forgive and ask to be forgiven. Mr. Chairman, I wish to say before taking my seat that my desire is, at the end of my earthly career, I shall be laid in yonder cemetery side by side where my wife and most of my children lie moldering in the dust." The brave old mariner said a few words more, and then had to give up, overcome by his emotions. The people of Thomaston are full of warm and affectionate words for him.—Boston Journal.

Opening a Combination Lock.

Minnehaha, S. D., has just finished a new court house at a cost of $[illegible]. Over $10,000 worth of vaults were ordered in, and recently the company making the contract was notified that the safes could not be accepted. The understanding was that no one could open the vaults unless he had the combination or was an expert at safe blowing.

Last week Edward H. Saunders, a plumber, not over 17 years old, entered the county clerk's office while the clerk was endeavoring to open one of the new vaults. The combination had been lost, and finally the clerk gave up the job. Young Saunders, who was standing by, said he could open it. County Commissioner McKee offered to give Saunders $10 if he could open the safe. The proposition was accepted. The young lad placed his ear to the door, listened to the fall of the tumblers, and in a few moments the door swung open. Saunders was turned out of the room and the combination was changed. Another trial was given the young genius and again the door flew open. The chairman of the county commissioners has informed the safe company that their safes would not be accepted, and awaited their further orders.

Saunders has since opened a vault of the Hall make in one of the leading banks of the city as easily as if he knew the combination. In one of the letters that passed between the commissioners and the safe company the latter agree to forfeit $10,000 if the lad can open any vault without first knowing the combination.—Plumbers' Trade Journal.

Trusting a Stranger.

A queer story is told about a Maine character who recently won an unenviable notoriety. While a well known Baptist clergyman, Rev. C. V. Hanson, was coming from Lewiston by train about a year ago, an elderly man in the same car inquired whether there was any one present going to Skowhegan. Mr. Hanson told him he resided there, whereat this man counted out $500, and gave the same to Mr. Hanson to deposit in the First National bank.

The circumstance passed from his mind until one day looking over his papers Mr. Hanson discovered by the receipt given him by Cashier Page that the man who intrusted him with the $500 was none other than Micah W. Norton, of New Portland. Either Norton is a pretty good reader of physiognomy or thinks he is.—Somerset Reporter.

A Costly Cow.

To prove the ownership of a $15 cow the costs were $75 in Squire Schwab's [illegible] court Monday afternoon. It took from 2 o'clock to 7 o'clock to examine the seventy-five witnesses. It seems that Frank Groneman, a West End dairyman, lost a cow, and found her in the stables of Fred Koester, his neighbor. A replevin of the animal followed, and the jury gave Groneman his cow, with $1 damages. The cow, covered with ribbons, was hauled in glory to the squire's office. —Cincinnati Times-Star.

A Timely Discovery.

A new insulating material, having all the properties of guttapercha, but with a higher dielectric resistance, is claimed by Dr. Purcell Taylor, of London. It is to be called "purcellite," and is said to be exceedingly tough and elastic, capable of being given any color, and of being made either flexible or rigid, and to be only one-fortieth as expensive as guttapercha.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Big Total at the Art Sale.

THE SENEY COLLECTION BRINGS $[illegible]—MILLET'S "WAITING" SOLD FOR $45,300. PRICES PAID FOR OTHER MASTERPIECES.

Such large prices were paid for pictures at the sale of the Seney collection in Madison Square Garden last week, that the total for the 108 paintings offered reached the handsome figure of $360,690—more than the amounts realized on the two previous evenings put together, says the New York Tribune. As about $[illegible] was received on the first two nights, the total for the 307 pictures of the collection was nearly $604,000, an average of over $2,000 apiece. The bidding was so brisk that it took only three hours and a half to dispose of 108 paintings, an average of about two minutes per picture. The attendance was even larger than on the previous evening, most of those present having come, of course, not to buy, but to admire the works of art as they were exhibited.

The highest priced picture of the collection, Millet's "Waiting," was offered and there was a hot contest for the possession of it. When the curtain was lifted from in front of the picture, the applause was loud, and it rose again when a bid of $20,000 was made. The price reached $38,000 by jumps of $1,000 each, and when four bids of $400 each had sent the picture to $45,000, there was more cheering. M. Knoedler & Co.'s representative added $500 to that figure, and every one else found himself beyond his depth. The purchaser said that he was not at liberty at present to tell for whom he had bought the picture.

Among the first pictures offered was the only Domingo in the collection, entitled "The Bravo," which went to S. P. Avery, Jr., for $1,850. The only Bouguereau, an 18 by 10 canvas, was sold to A. J. Root, for $3,600. The enthusiasm of the spectators was aroused when Delacroix's fine "Tiger and Serpent" was exhibited. The first bid on this 13 by 16 picture was $5,000 and the last $11,000, being made by J. B. Randolph, on order. Millet's "The Apple Harvest" went to I. Montaignac, of Paris, for $6,500, and P. A. B. Widener's bid of $6,000, the only one made, secured the only Gerome of the collection, called "The First Kiss of the Sun." A fine Knaus, "The Old Witch," went to J. L. Aiken for $12,000, and another painting by the same artist, "The Child's Funeral," was bought by the same purchaser for $10,000, that being the only bid made.

The only example of the work of Sir John Millais in the collection, "The Love-Bird," was sold to a Boston purchaser, F. Foxcroft Cole, for $3,900. J. L. Aiken secured Diaz's "The Virgin and Child" for $8,600, after some spirited bidding, and the sole Rosa Bonheur on the catalogue, "The Choice of the Flock," brought $6,100 from D. W. Powers. I. Montaignac, of Paris, secured Meissonier's "Deliberation" for $7,600, and Troyon's "Sheep in a Forest" for $11,100. Corot's "The Dance of the Nymphs" went to L. Crist Delmonico, on order for $7,100; Dupre's "Sunset," to I. Montaignac, for $9,100; Troyon's "Hounds," for $12,000 (the only bid), to P. A. B. Widener and Van Marcke's "Rich Pasturage," for $7,400, to Herman Selans.

Thomas E. Kirby, the auctioneer, announced in the course of the evening that the managers of the Washington Memorial Arch Fund had asked Mr. Seney to give the receipts of one day of the exhibition held previous to the sale, to aid in building the arch. Mr. Seney found that it would be impossible to do this, so he offered to sell two of his pictures for the benefit of the fund. Accordingly at the end of the regular sale, Mr. Kirby asked for bids on a marine by T. Alexander Harrison. A. L. Barber, of Washington, paid $1 150 for this, and Reichard & Co. bid on a landscape, by Wyant, for $400. Mr. Seney thus contributes $1,550 to the fund for the arch

Let every enfeebled woman know it! There's a medicine that'll cure her, and the proof's positive!

Here's the proof—if it doesn't do you good within reasonable time, report the fact to its makers and get your money back, without a word—but you won't do it!

The remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and it has proved itself the right remedy in nearly every case of female weakness.

It is not a miracle. It won't cure everything—but it has done more to build-up tired, enfeebled and broken-down women than any other medicine known.

Where's the woman who's not ready for it? All that we've to do is to get the news to her. The medicine will do the rest.

Wanted—Women. First to know it. Second to use it. Third to be cured by it. The one comes of the other.

The seat of sick headache is not in the brain. Regulate the stomach and you cure it. Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the little regulators.
